For the fourth consecutive year, the Cervantes Institute at Harvard University organizes the "Reshaping Hispanic Cultures" symposium, particularly focusing on researchers who are beginning their professional career. Unpublished papers will be presented covering topics related to Hispanic cultures within areas of research as diverse as literature, history, sociology, cinema, politics or Spanish language teaching. The conference program includes two keynote lectures by prestigious researchers from Harvard University: Tamar Herzog (Department of History and Harvard Law School) and Felipe Pereda (Department of History of Art and Architecture).

Por cuarto año consecutivo, el Instituto Cervantes en la Universidad de Harvard organiza el simposio «Reshaping Hispanic Cultures», principalmente dirigido a investigadores que están comenzando su trayectoria profesional. Se presentarán comunicaciones inéditas sobre temas relacionados con las culturas hispánicas desde ámbitos tan distintos como la literatura, la historia, la sociología, el cine, la política o la enseñanza del español. Asimismo, el programa del simposio incluye dos conferencias plenarias a cargo de prestigiosos investigadores de Harvard University: Tamar Herzog (Department of History y Harvard Law School) y Felipe Pereda (Department of History of Art and Architecture).
